The people of Homer are highly indignant over the treatment given Mrs. Jas. Nelson, a young woman about 20 years of age. She was suffering with lung fever and was being treated by Dr. D. A. Stinson of this place. Her father, Dick Skidmore, is a divine faith healer, and is known as a "Morganite." He advised his daughter to forsake medicine and rely on divine faith to restore her to health. After three days of divine cure Mrs. Nelson died.

The injury received will keep Mr. Graak from his duties for some time.

Thos. Duher, section man for the F. E. & M. V., this afternoon found a finger with a plain gold ring thereon near the coal sheds of J. W. Braasch. It is supposed to be the finger of the late Peter L. Buhman, who met his death here in the morning of January 1, while firing a salute to the new year. The parents of Mr. Buhman have been very anxious to recover the ring and news of the find will be gladly received by them. This instance illustrates the force of the explosion on that occasion. The place where the finger was found was almost half a block away from the foundry where the saluting mortar was stationed.

General Manager Howe is also to change his place of residence to San Francisco or one of the suburban cities across the bay, and his headquarters will be at the general western office of the company.

People of St. Edwards have given a warning to wife beaters not to be misconstrued. Tuesday morning a large, well made effigy, thickly coated with tar and feathers was suspended by the neck over main street from a rope stretched between two telephone poles. The effigy bore a placard with these words: "This is what will happen to the next wife beater." One end of the rope was tied to a pole immediately in front of a meat market where a man by the name of Raymond is employed. It is charged that last Saturday night Raymond brutally beat his wife, throwing her so violently upon the bed as to break it, and afterward dragging her down stairs by the hair. Raymond lost his job.

A company has been organized at Newman Grove for the manufacture of a new well tubing which it is thought will supersede the old cast-iron pipe at present used in the construction of drive wells. The company is known as the C. G. Dimock Manufacturing company, Mr. Dimock being the patentee. The company starts with a paid up capital of $7,500 and an authorized capital of $80,000. The incorporators are C. G. Dimock and John Blomquist of Newman Grove, C. E. Burnham of Tilden, Dr. W. M. Condon of Humphrey and W. E. Reed and T. F. Memminger of Madison, the officers being: T. F. Memminger, president, W. M. Condon, vice president; J. Blomquist secretary and treasurer and C. G. Dimock manager. The Tilden Citizen gives the following description of the proposed manufacture: "The pipe referred to is to supersede the iron pipe now in general use and is made of galvanized sheet iron, such as is used in making chimney caps. The iron is cut of a size to allow a lap of about one-third the circumference of the pipe, and is then rolled to the required diameter and secured in that position by two rows of rivets. The joints intended to be placed in water bearing strata have a series of small holes punched through the folds at a distance of about a foot, and between the folds is placed the fine wire gauze for keeping out the sand, etc. The lengths are fastened together in the manner of stove pipe."

A new kind of hold-up was tried by a man living at Auburn but it wasn't much of a success and is not likely to prove popular. He wrote the superintendent of the poor farm threatening to become a charge on the county unless he was immediately given a cash bonus of $15. The superintendent did not accede to the demand and the tenant arrived in due time but made his visit short because the county had not provided bath-room accommodations.

Tilden Citizen: A son was born last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson on the old Beal place south of town, who is in all likelihood the smallest specimen of humanity in this part of Nebraska. The little chap weighed but two and three-quarters pounds when dressed, and doll's clothing had to be called into use for his benefit. Notwithstanding his lilliputian size the boy is thrifty and takes his natural nourishment like other babies of ordinary size.

Some one fixed up a job on H. E. Hardy, the coal man. In his ad in The News in large letters is the word "Fuel" in capitals. Some practical joker in one paper removed a portion of the upper part of the letter "F" and made the ad read: "H. E. Hardy, Fuel." The News force was almost thrown into convulsions on seeing the paper and thinking that a glaring error had been made, but the fine hand of the craser was detected on closer scrutiny, and when the ad was found to be all right.

Baron Wounds His Man. Rothschild and Lubersac Fight a Deeper-ate Duel to Which the Latter Comes Out Second Best.

Paris, Jan. 21.—The long expected duel between Count de Lubersac and Baron Robert de Rothschild was fought with swords yesterday on Baron Edmund de Rothschild's estate at Boulogne Sur Seine. The duel began at 11 and lasted ten minutes, when Count de Lubersac received a huge, perforating his arm from the elbow to the armpit. The duel was then stopped. Both the count and the baron fought most determinedly, neither flinching and neither showed the slightest desire to spare the other. Sixteen engagements took place, all of a desperate character. The combatants attacked each other furiously. The sleeves of their shirts were literally torn to pieces by the points of their swords, as the duellists repeatedly lunged at each other. Several times they came to close quarters and their seconds were obliged to separate them.

At the 13th onslaught, Baron de Rothschild lunged at the count, who tried to parry, but failed and the baron's sword penetrated his arm, just above the elbow and issued at the armpit. The spectators hastened around the wounded man and two well known physicians examined the wound. They declared the count's life was not in danger, but it was impossible to continue the duel. Count de Lubersac was then driven back to Paris. Baron de Rothschild is still performing military service with the Fifty-fourth regiment. He only attained his majority yesterday, and lost no time in settling his account with Count de Lubersac.

MITCHELL'S ADDRESS. Principal Feature of the Day's Session of Mine Workers.

Indianapolis, Jan. 21.—The feature of yesterday's session of the United Mine Workers of America was the annual address of President Mitchell. He went into details of the history of the conditions which brought about the anthracite strike last September and all official movements of the strike are reported. Speaking of the order's growth President Mitchell said:

The growth of our organization during the past year has been almost phenomenal, even surpassing the extraordinary increase reported at our last convention for the year 1899. In December, 1899, the membership was 183,225, an increase of 98,312, or 53 per cent. There were organized and re-organized 698 locals, as against 477 in 1899.

On the arbitration problem the president said:

The advantages to miners and operators alike where mutual contracts are entered into for a given period of time have become so obvious that I am convinced that even more satisfactory results would accrue to each if contracts were entered into which would insure uninterrupted employment for a period of two years. Instead of one I would recommend that our organization propose to the operators the formation of a joint board of arbitration and conciliation, whose duty it shall be to adjust all disputes arising between operators and miners over the construction or interpretation of the provisions of the joint agreement. The settlement of such board to be called upon only where adjustments cannot be effected by the ordinary and established methods now in force.

YEAR'S OUTPUT OF METALS. Greatest in the History of This Country and Canada.

New York, Jan. 24.—J. J. Valentine, president of Wells, Fargo & Co., has issued his annual report of the metals produced in the states and territories west of the Missouri river, including British Columbia and the Yukon district.

The report states that the total gross result in 1900 was $229,315,427, of which gold contributed $99,109,733; copper, $69,752,284, and silver $42,402,502.

The combined output of these metals last year was the greatest in the history of this country and Canada. The world's production of gold estimated at $236,000,000 shows a decrease of $68,000,000, as compared with 1899.

Mitchell, S. D., Jan. 24.—Sheriff Swindler has returned from Denver, where he went in quest of a prisoner wanted for criminal assault. He had the necessary requisition papers from Governor Herried, but the Colorado executive declined to recognize them.

TAKES UP THE SCEPTER.

Kind Edward VII Mounts the English Throne.

IN VICTORIA'S FOOTSTEPS.

Albert Edward Assumes the Title of King of the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and Emperor of India—Funeral Arrangements—Business Suspended.

London, Jan. 21.—An extraordinary issue of the Gazette this morning, which appears with black borders, announces the death of Queen Victoria, adding: "The event has caused one universal feeling of regret and sorrow to her majesty's faithful subjects, to whom she was endeared by the deep interest in their welfare which she invariably manifested, as well as by many signal virtues which marked and adorned her character."

Then follows the proclamation of Edward VII, the acknowledgment of allegiance by the privy council and the king's speech at his accession, which is as follows:

"Your Royal Highnesses, My Lords and Gentlemen: This is the most painful occasion on which I shall ever be called upon to address you. My first and melancholy duty is to announce to you the death of my beloved mother, the queen, and I know how deeply you and the nation, and I think I may say the whole world sympathize with me in the irreparable loss we will have sustained."

"I need hardly say that my constant endeavor will be always to walk in her footsteps."

"In undertaking the heavy load which now devolves upon me, I am fully determined to be a constitutional sovereign in the strictest sense of the word and so long as there is breath in my body to work for the good and amelioration of my people."

"I have resolved to be known by the name of Edward, which has been borne by six of my ancestors. In doing so I do not undervalue the name of Albert, which I inherit from my ever-to-be-lamented great and wise father, who by universal consent is, I think, deservedly known by the name of 'Albert the Good,' and I desire that his name should stand alone."

"In conclusion, I trust to parliament and the nation to support me in the arduous duties which now devolve upon me by inheritance and to which I am determined to devote my whole strength during the remainder of my life."

King at His Capital.

London, Jan. 24.—The king-emperor entered his capital at noon yesterday. At the meeting of the privy council the king took the title of Edward VII, king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

London has donned the garb of mourning from end to end. Throughout the West end drawn blinds are the order of the day, while on all the embassies, government offices and public buildings the flags are half-masted. The law courts, the stock exchanges and all the produce and metal exchanges throughout the country only assembled to close immediately after the presiding officers had addressed to the members a few words of tribute to the dead monarch.

The various naval and military stations fired a salute of 81 guns at midnight to signalize the death of the queen, one gun for each completed year of the queen's age. The public buildings are being draped with black, the stores are displaying many signs of mourning and business is practically at a standstill.

Crowds Greet King.

The crowds waited patiently for hours to greet their king. Finally, preceded by half a dozen mounted policemen, the new sovereign arrived in a plain brougham. The king was, of course, dressed in the deepest and most simple mourning, and carefully raised his hat in acknowledgement of the silent uncovering of heads, which was more impressive than the most enthusiastic cheering. The king looked tired and very sad, but very well.

The king drove to St. James palace from Marlborough house to reside at the first privy council. Lord Salisbury, Lord Rosebery, A. J. Balfour, the duke of Devonshire, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal and a host of the most prominent personages in the land were there to receive the king's formal oath, binding him to govern the kingdom according to its laws and customs and bearing him assume the title of King Edward VII of Great Britain and Ireland and emperor of India.

The ceremony was interesting and according to precedent.

Funeral Arrangements.

It is understood the king will return to Osborne today to direct the funeral arrangements. These were discussed at a meeting of the authorities of the royal household at Buckingham palace last evening. At the college of arms, it was said that the date of the funeral could not be settled until it was known when the European royalties or their representatives would arrive, but that the function would be held at the earliest possible date for the convenience of Emperor William, whose stay in England might be unavoidably limited.

Buckingham palace is being made ready for the royal persons who are arriving in London. Representatives of all the royal families in Europe will probably be present at the funeral, including the King of Italy, Belgium and Greece, the crown princes of Germany and Sweden and Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria.

All the European courts will go into mourning for various periods.

Mother's Friend

Every woman in the country ought to know about

These who do know about it under how they ever got along without it. It has robbed childbirth of its terrors for many a young wife. It has preserved her girlish figure and saved her much suffering. It is an external liniment and carries with it therefore, absolutely no danger of upsetting the system as drugs taken internally are apt to do. It is to be rubbed into the abdomen to soften and strengthen the muscles which are to bear the strain. This prevents morning sickness and all of the other discomforts of pregnancy.

A druggist at Macon, Ga., says: "I have used a large quantity of Mother's Friend and have never known an instance where it has failed to produce the good results claimed for it."

A prominent lady of Lamberton, Ark., writes: "With my first six children I was in labor from 24 to 36 hours. After using Mother's Friend, my seventh was born in 4 hours."
